

Melanie DewBerry-Jones is the Soul Coach.

Deeply soulful, she speaks to sustainable businesses and women's organizations. Grounded in her Native American Cosmology, she brings tangible approaches in merging spirituality, business, and personal development. Melanie offers lively keynotes, suggesting ways you can "think like an Indian."

Motivational and inspirational, sure, but what Melanie really brings to your event is a personal message on how to harness your personal power through conscious evolution. Melanie shows you empirically the value of resonance and intuition over strategizing and techniques. Bringer of truth, depth and expansiveness, Melanie leaves audiences with ways of "sustain ability": becoming self sustaining regardless of external influences.

Shifting audiences into an intentional evolutionary model (instead of responding to external crisis, they learn to lead the change) for success measured by their power of congruence (living within their values), Melanie makes any topic relevant to your current reality. That's her distinctive brand: making meaning and relevance your currency for success.

A natural storyteller and humorist, she will have audience members learning with laughter.

Getting Down to the Serious Business of Love

It turns out business is actually very personal. Gallup polls show that people perform better when they work with a friend. Friendship brings compassion, grace and safety, the qualities of love. What does love look like in the office? How do you embrace connection in meaningful way? Move beyond techniques and team building exercises that expire soon after the activity. Getting down to the serious business of love is predicated on defining Presence, Transparency, building Community, and honoring Humanity. It's good for business because it's good for the people who make your business.

Right Brain Integration –Spiritual Intelligence

Spiritual intelligence (SQ) is the latest of quotient measures. It is your catalyst for right brain integration. SQ is the balancing point between you're emotional and social intelligence. Spiritual Intelligence is the initiator of intuition that enables you to hear beyond words, innovation of a visionary and creative energy that infectious. The SQ creates sustainable relationships and organically inspires greatness. You have a right brain. Are you using it or are you still using Newtonian strategies and techniques? Why settle for skills when you have a natural talent?
